

Diversity at Work

Most work situations today put us in contact with others who look, think, or act differently than ourselves. This seminar helps you to understand and respect people of other cultures and become understood and respected by them. Using simulations and powerful discussions, you will explore diversity in your workplace, identify the barriers to diversity, and learn to communicate effectively with people of different backgrounds.

In this seminar, you will:

- Learn how the workforce is changing
- Discover what diversity really is and why it is important to your company
- Uncover the five dimensions of diversity
- Learn the best approach to address diversity
- Learn how our minds judge others before we really know them
- Find out why stereotyping is harmful
- Explore communication challenges across cultures
- Learn tips for using humor in multicultural situations
- Learn how the Platinum Rule works in a diverse workplace

Who Will Benefit?

Managers, supervisors, human resources managers, and staff—anyone needing to increase awareness and learn the value of diversity in business.
